Vol. XI. Numb. 8.

THE OBSERVATOR.

On the Scandalous Story rais'd by Abel and his Fellow-Labourers, That the Presbyterians of Scotland turn Churches into Stables; On the Designs of the Faction, who plead to have a different Form of Worship allow'd there, contrary to the particular Laws of that Country, and the Union-Act.

From Wednesday, January 23. to Saturday, January 26. 1712.

Countrym. I Want some farther Discourse with you, Master, about the Affairs of Scotland; because the French Faction continue their Clamours as if the Episcopal Party there were grievously persecuted; and the Tool Abel, and others of the Libellers, publish strange Storys of turning Churches there into Stables, &c. on purpose to make the Church of Scotland odious.

Obs. Any body may see thro the Conduct of the Faction, Roger. The Treaty of Union stands in the way of their falling directly upon the Church of Scotland; and since Matters are not yet ripe for an avowed Design to overturn it at once, they must attempt it gradually, and by indirect Methods. Thus they have tim'd their false Clamour of the Persecution you mention, the collecting of Mony on pretence of relieving their persecuted Brethren, and the idle Story of turning Churches into Stables, so as it may give Countenance to their more important Design of breaking thro the Articles of the Union, with relation to the Church of Scotland.

Countrym. Pray, Master, what is there in that Story of Sir James Hall's turning the Church of Dunglass into a Stable for his Coach-Horses, which Abel and the rest of the Libellers make such a Noise about?

Obs. I've enquir'd into that matter, Roger; and am inform'd by Gentlemen who know the Place very well, that there neither is, nor has been any Parish Church there since the Reformation. They tell me, that there is indeed a Chappel that was made use of in the time of Popery, and ever since the Roman Idolatry was banish'd Scotland it has belong'd to the Lord of the Mannor, but never was a Parochial Church. Therefore the Noise that Abel and the rest of the Libellers make about its being a consecrated Place, serves only to expose their Malice, their Ignorance, and their Inclinations to Popery. The Church of Scotland did never either under Presbytery at first, Episcopacy afterwards, or now under Presbytery again, shew any regard to Popish Consecrations; nor did the Reformers of the Church of England shew any greater Respect to them, as is evident from the Reformation begun by Henry VIII. and carried on by his Successors Edward VI. and Queen Elizabeth. Every one knows that King Henry VIII. tho he liv'd and dy'd a Papist, was not so fooliſh a Bigot as to think that Popish Consecrations could alter the Nature of Things, so as to make it unlawful to put them to other Uses than what the Priests had design'd them for; nor have the Lords and Gentlemen of the Church of England ever accounted it Sacrilege to turn Popish Abbeys, and other consecrated Places which they bought with their Mony, or obtained by Grants upon the dissolution of Monasterys, to Dwelling-Houses, Farm-Houses, Stables, or Kitchens. Her Majesty's Royal Predecessors had their chief Palace, as well as their Stables and Coach-Houses, at the Abbey of Holy-Rood-House in Edinburgh; and they are still apply'd to the same Use by her Majesty's Authority. Besides, the Libellers may be pleas'd to know, that her Majesty's Palace of Whitehall was formerly consecrated Ground belonging to the Grey Friars; and we all know that there's abundance of Stables and Coach-Houses within that Precinct. It was once also noted for Houses of another sort, which we leave Abel and his Friends to guess at; but every one must allow that Horses may as innocently succeed Pimps and Pandars to the Whore of Rome, as Harlots. In the mean time, Roger, we are not to take what Abel and other Libellers have said in this respect against Sir James Hall to be exactly true, since we very well know that they have the Faculty of forging as well as aggravating; but you may depend upon't, that it never was a Parish-Church; and being Sir James's Property, let the Faction produce their Arguments to prove that Gentleman guilty of Sacrilege for turning it into a Coach-House or Stables, any more than he would have been for putting it to what other secular Use he thought fit.

Countrym. We may plainly see what the Faction is driving at, Master; and that under the Notion of Zeal for the Church, they really plead for Popery and an Exorbitant Power to the Clergy. I wonder they don't quarrel with the Honourable House of Commons for Sitting in St. Stephen's Chappel; and also with the House of Lords, for retaining so many Abbeys and Abbey-Lands in their possession. We know very well that many of our Highflying Authors have condemn'd both Houses of Sacrilege for alienating Church Lands, and that some of them have argu'd for having Abbots and Priors restor'd to their Places in Parliament; and since there were no fewer than Twenty-seven of 'em when King Henry VIII. dissolv'd them, they would make a pretty handsom Club, and prevent the October from turning sowr by setting it in Holy-Water. But pray, Master, inform me how the Laws of Scotland stand with relation to the Establish'd Church there, and what Altetation has been made in them by the Union? for I'm told by some, that there is nothing in those Laws against a Toleration to the Episcopal Party, and the English Common-Prayer-Book.

Obs. 'Tis plain from their Acts of Parliament, Roger, that Presbytery is unalterably establish'd to be the only Government of the Church of Christ in that Kingdom, and this is ratify'd by the Union Act, which says, That the Worship as well who were beaten off, I add, that the Duke of [illegible] design to be here again to Morrow. Last Night arrived well as the Diſcipline and Government of the Church of Scotland is to continue without any Alteration to the People of that Land in all ſucceeding Generations, 5th Anne, Cap. 8. Section 2. By this Act all other Acts relating to the Church of Scotland in Proſecution of the Bill of Rights of that Kingdom, are likewiſe ratify'd, from all which it ſeems to me to be a natural Inference, Roger, That no other Form of Worſhip, Diſcipline, Government or Confeſſion of Faith, can be allow'd in that Country without a manifeſt Breach of the Union.

Countrym. But 'tis objected, Maſter, that theſe Laws relate only to ſuch as are in the Communion of the Church of Scotland, and not to thoſe who Diſſent from her.

Obſ. That is beſt to be underſtood by viewing the Acts themſelves, Roger; by which it is plain, that no Diſſent was allow'd from that Church but only to above 100 Epiſcopal Miniſters, who were continued in their Churches and Benefices upon the taking Oaths to the Civil Government without conforming to Presbytery, but they are not allow'd any different Form of Worſhip, nor did they ever pretend to it; beſides, they are reſtrain'd from Licenſing or Ordaining others from exerciſing any part of Government or from officiating out of their own Pariſhes, until they be duly aſſum'd by a competent Church Judicatory, as appears by the 27th Act of the 5th Seſſion of King William's firſt Parliament. They are likewiſe made Subject to the Cenſure of the Church of Scotland in her Presbyterys, and Provincial and General Aſſemblys in caſe of Scandal, Negligence, Error or Inſufficiency, ſo that where the Law has made no Exception, 'tis not in the Power of others to do it.

By the ſixth Act of the 4th Seſſion of King William and Queen Mary's firſt Parliament, 'All 'Preachers and Miniſters of the Goſpel whatſo- 'ever, are to take the Oaths before the proper 'Magiſtrates, ſuch as were provided of Benefices, 'on pain of Deprivation, and ſuch as were not, 'on pain of Baniſhment, &c.

By the 22d Act of the ſame Seſſion, 'None is 'to be continued or admitted a Preacher, with- 'out taking the Oath, and ſigning the Aſſurance, 'and making Application to the Church Judica- 'tories in an orderly way, on pain of being Cen- 'ſur'd by the Church, and having thoſe Cenſures 'made effectual by the Magiſtrates.

By Act 22d. Seſſion 4. Parl. 1*ſt* of William and Mary, 'No Man is to preach in Scotland without 'ſigning the Eſtabliſh'd Confeſſion of Faith as 'their own, and ſubmitting to Presbyterian Go- 'vernment, except thoſe Epiſcopal Incumbents, 'who were allow'd to continue in their Churches 'on the Limitations abovemention'd.

By the 22d Act, Seſſion 5th of that ſame Parliament, 'No Man is to exerciſe any part of the 'Miniſterial Function within any Pariſh, without 'an Orderly Call from the Heretors, i. e. Free- 'holders and Elderſhip, and a Legal Admiſſion 'from the Presbytery of the Bounds.

By Act 5. Seſſion 2d of the ſame Parliament, 'The Judicatories of the Church are impower'd 'to purge out all Inſufficient, Negligent, Scan- 'dalous and Erroneous Miniſters by due courſe 'of Eccleſiaſtical Proceſs and Cenſures, and like- 'wiſe for redreſſing all other Church Diſorders; 'They have alſo a Power to Suſpend or Depoſe 'whatever Miniſter is Summon'd before them, 'and is either prov'd Guilty, or does not appear 'to their Summons.

By the 12th Act of the 5th Seſſion of that Parliament, 'All Outed Miniſters are prohibited to 'baptize any Children, or ſolemnize Marriages, 'on pain of Impriſonment, until they give Se- 'curity to go out of the Kingdom, and never 'more to return to it.

Countrym. And are all thoſe Acts ratify'd by the Union, Maſter?

Obſ. Every one of them, Roger, as appears by the Union Act, which takes notice, 'That the 'Commiſſioners for the Treaty were forbid to 'treat of any Alteration of the Worſhip, Diſci- 'pline and Government of the Church of Scot- 'land, as then by Law Eſtabliſh'd; And there- fore the ſaid Act does confirm the Proteſtant Religion, the Worſhip, Diſcipline and Govern- ment of that Church, to continue without any Alteration to the People of that Land in all ſucceeding Generations, and by that ſame Act, the Bounds of the Church and Kingdom are made the ſame, and all the Acts of Parliament for ra- tifying the Confeſſion of Faith, and ſettling Pres- byterian Government are there declar'd to be Unalterable.

Countrym. 'Tis very ſtrange then, Maſter, that People ſhou'd argue for a Toleration to any other Form of Worſhip or Government in that Coun- try upon the Foot of Law, ſince there are ſuch expreſs Proviſions made againſt it by the parti- cular Laws of Scotland, which are all ratify'd by the Union Act. Certainly every one ought to be cautious how they intrench upon the Union, ſince her Majeſty has valued it from the Throne as one of the moſt glorious parts of her Reign; for whatever may be ſaid for the Equity of allow- ing ſuch a Toleration in caſe the Party deſerv'd it, I don't ſee how it can be allow'd them now, without breaking in upon the moſt ſolemn Treaty that ever was made betwixt the Nations, eſpecial- ly ſince it appears plain, that except the Security of the Church of Scotland, as abovemention'd, had been agreed to, the Scots wou'd never have come into the Union.

Obſ. That's plain enough, Roger; We ſhall talk further of this Subject on the Foot of Equity and Expediency another time. But this we may venture to ſay at preſent, That the Scots have already complain'd of ſeveral Infractions upon that Treaty, and I wiſh there be none behind the Curtain who puſh this Matter on purpoſe to occaſion Confuſion and Bloodſhed in that part of the Iſland, and thereby give a Handle to the French King and the Pretender to diſturb the Quiet of the Kingdom. But what you and I ſay on this Subject, muſt be ſubmitted to the Legiſla- ture. We only talk of the Party without Doors.

HIS Majeſty has conferred on the Marquis de Valdecannas the Office of Inſpector-General of the Troops, vacant by the Diſmiſſion of the Count d' Aguilar. The Count de Bergeik et out to Morrow for Utrecht, and will llowed the 7th by the Duke d' Oſſuna, firſt otentiary, whoſe Baggage was ſent away 8 go. 'Tis affirmed that he has aſſigned the Crowns, which his Majeſty has given him e Expence of his Journey and Equipage, to ployed in reeſtabliſhing the firſt Troop of Guards, of which he is Captain, that has ſuf- very much this Campaign. Letters from the at Calaf of the 23d paſt, relate that the of the Caſtle of Cardona was at length raiſed. Troops had been extremely fatigued by the bad ther, and by want of Proviſions, becauſe of difficulty of ſupplying them with Convoys. ever, the Enemy had been repulſed with great n nine ſeveral Attacks, whereof three which made the 21ſt, did not ſucceed: But having reinforced to the Number of above 10000 among whom were 4000 Men of regular Troops, ſt conſiſting of Miquelets and Mountaineers ilitia, they attacked again on the 22d the e of las Corminas on the Cardoner. The Re- ts de la Couronne and Truxillo, ſuſtained by nforcement ſent to them by the Count de Mu- ontinued to defend it with very great Valour; e Enemy having found Means to ford through ver, fell on them in Flank, and the Count de who commanded that Poſt was killed there, made our Men retire in Diſorder, the Count ret not being able to ſtop them. So he was d to think of retreating, and was conſtrained nt of Carriages, to leave in the Hoſpital 200 Wounded, and to abandon 2 Mortars and pnon, after having nailed them. He like- ved all his Baggage, and marched in good to the Camp at Calaf, without loſing one not being purſued by the Enemy: Who con- themſelves to put Succours into the Caſtle, en repaſſed the River. We are aſſured that laſt Action there were on both Sides about len killed or wounded. The Letters add, he Seaſon being very much advanced, the of Vendome was about to diſtribute the s into Winter-Quarters, in that Part of Ca- which is poſſeſſed by the King's Armies, in onca de Trems, between the Segra and the ra Ribagorzana, at Tarrega, Cervera, Ba- Lerida, and Tortoſa. They write from the 24th of December, that they had ſurpri- d ſiezed there two Spies who were taking a t of the Fortifications: That they confeſ- y had been ſent by the Archduke, to ſet fire Magazines of Powder, hoping to be ſecond- ſome private Perſons of the City, whoſe they declared and for whom ſearch was but they had fled. The Guards of the and Poſts were doubled, and the Deſerters re come over from Gibraltar had Orders given o depart the Town within 24 Hours.

r written from Barcelona the 26th of December by Don Vincent de Miro.

the News which I do my ſelf the Honour to nd to his Excellency, of the abandoning of ge of the Caſtle of Cardona by the Ene- no were beaten off, I add, that the Duke of Vendome has decamped from Calaf ſilently in the Night, and repaſſed the Mountains with his Army, by favour of a very thick Fog. Aſſoon as there was Intelligence of it, Count Guido Staremberg gave Order to General Nebot to poſſeſs himſelf of ſome Paſſages, by Means of which 'tis hoped the flying Enemy may be ſtopped. The Count de Atalaya was likewiſe commanded out with a ſtrong Detachment of Grenadiers, to fall upon their Rear-Guard; and the whole Army is following with all poſſible Expedition; ſo that we expect hourly to hear there has been ſome Action of Importance. Be that as it will, we have already made ſufficient Acquiſitions this Campaign; Vendome who threatened to come and beſiege Barcelona, has not been able to take ſo much as Prats del Rey; nor has he dared to attack Oſtalric; and he has been forced to abandon the Siege of the Caſtle of Cardona, after 6 Weeks open Trenches, and after having taken the Town by Treachery; and though the Enemy had 12000 Men in the Field more than we, they have been forced to ſteal off ſilently.

Paris, Jan. 18. The King has ſent M. d'Aubigny to Madrid, with Orders to come back again in Company with the Plenipotentiaries from that Court. Since the Departure of our Miniſters for Utrecht, ſeveral Expreſſes have been ſent after them, with repeated Orders ('tis ſaid) to inſiſt ſtrenuouſly on a Ceſſation of Arms. In the mean time the levying of Recruits is carried on very diligently, and the Inſpectors are to make the general Muſter the 15th of March. We talk of new Taxes, the Produce of that of the Tenth Penny not being ſufficient for the Charge of the Campaign.

Paris, Jan. 22. 'Tis reported upon Advices from Cadiz of the 27th of December, that M. du Gue Trouin and M. du Caſſe are come away together from Martenico for France, richly laden; and that this News was brought to Cadiz by an Advice-Boat. But as ſo many former Advices concerning thoſe two Commanders have proved falſe, and this neither mentioning the Time nor other Particulars of their Departure, 'tis proper to wait till it be confirmed. We ſhall ſoon know the Truth: For if they have actually ſailed from Martenico, they muſt quickly arrive on the Coaſt of Spain or ours. 'Tis alſo adviſed from Cadiz, that the Flotilla for Buenos-Ayres ſailed the 27th paſt, with 4 French Ships bound for the South-Sea.

Utrecht, Jan. 27. The 22d Inſtant the Plenipotentiaries of the Allies went to view the Apartments of the Town-Houſe in which the Conferences are to be held. A Chamber is appointed, on one Side of that wherein the Congreſs is to be, for the French Plenipotentiaries when they would conferr by themſelves; and another, on the other Side, for the Plenipotentiaries of the Allies. The 23d the Plenipotentiaries of the Allies had a Conference together, in which they ſettled the Regulations to be obſerved by all the Miniſters during the Time of the Congreſs, which Regulations having ſince been communicated to the French Plenipotentiaries, they came Yeſterday in the Afternoon to the Britiſh Miniſters, and returned the ſame to them, with ſome Alterations, and their Reaſons for thoſe Alterations. The Britiſh and Dutch Miniſters having for ſome Days had very long Conferences together, 'twas Yeſterday agreed, that on Friday next the 29th Inſtant, the general Conferences ſhall be opened, and thenceforward be held regularly twice a Week, namely, Wedneſdays and Saturdays to begin at 10 in the Morning.
